

ADAPTIVE FISHING GEAR

We believe that anyone with a disability should be able to learn to fish or with adaptive devices continue the sport they enjoy.

The Strong Arm fishing rod holder:

Useful for: Anyone with limited or no grip. Even lower level quadriplegics can cast independently.

Elec-tra-mate Reels & Penn Reels:

Useful for: Individuals with wrist/hand pain due to arthritis or an upper extremity amputation. It allows you to reel in a catch with the push of a button.

Fishing Rod Bandit Rod Holder:

Useful for: Upper Extremity amputation
Holder positions across abdomen, eliminating the need for both hands to manipulate.

Other adaptive fishing devices:

ADALAP – slides right under the wheelchair seat cushion. The lightweight anodized aluminum base is very durable and easy to use. No nuts or bolts, just sturdy, adjustable convenience. Base will not rust and can be used while out in the rain. The Base Unit comes with the base and pole with a top plate and velcro loop. You can also get a freshwater and/or saltwater rod holder.

Anglers Aid – holds all four styles of rods: bait, spin, spin-casting, and fly. The adjustable insert grips to the rod so you can play the fish with one hand. Available with buckle on the right, left or both sides for the rehab setting. Will not work with pistol grip.

TY-ALL – ties fishing knots that hold which saves lures, fish and time. Plus aids fishermen in threading hooks and cutting line. Comes with mounting bolt and wing nut, line cutter and threader.
